

EMERGENCY NURSING SUITE: EMERGENCY DEPARTMENTS BENEFIT FROM FULL RANGE OF ONLINE NURSING CONTINUING EDUCATION TOOLS

Nurses must be ready to meet a whole host of challenges at a moment's notice, whether it's conducting triage in a busy emergency department (ED), addressing the needs of abuse victims, treating major trauma cases, or responding to an emerging public health crisis.

As the leader in online healthcare learning, Elsevier/MC Strategies understands the issues that nurses confront on a daily basis. That's why we're offering the most comprehensive online solution for emergency-based nursing continuing education available today. Our Emergency Nursing Suite of products includes three emergency nursing-specific courses — ENA: Emergency Nursing Orientation, ENA: Emergency Nursing Triage, and ReadyRN: Disaster Nursing and Emergency Preparedness — bundled into a complete learning experience.

Authored by ENA, The Emergency Nursing Suite provides emergency nurses with access to products that help them meet essential continuing education needs, from emergency nursing orientation to disaster preparedness.

➤ ENA: Emergency Nursing Orientation The Elsevier/MC Strategies' Emergency Nursing Orientation course consists of 43 online modules that incorporate the latest evidence-based practices and are updated on a regular basis. This course offers an opportunity to earn up to 69.8† continuing nursing education contact hours awarded by the ENA. A wide array of topics are covered, from the legal foundations of emergency care to assessment and end-of-life issues. The course provides detailed information on a full range of trauma emergencies, including head, spinal, thoracic, burns, respiratory, and others. The Emergency Nursing Orientation course also offers guidance for intervening for populations with special needs, such as pediatrics, violence and abuse, behavior health, and substance abuse.

➤ ENA: Emergency Nursing Triage helps prepare emergency nurses to perform triage for any patient in any setting regardless of the triage system used in their organization. The course is authored by the Emergency Nurses Association (ENA), the leader in emergency nursing practice, and reflects the latest in evidence-based practices. The Emergency Nursing Triage course is uniquely organized by the most common chief complaints of patients seen in the ED. This innovative approach creates a more realistic learning experience by aligning the core content with the way patients actually present to the ED. Whether signs and symptoms involve airway and breathing, wounds, or the head, neck, or trunk, nurses will be equipped to rapidly assess and move the patient quickly to appropriate treatment.

➤ ReadyRN: Disaster Nursing and Emergency Preparedness online course helps prepare your nurses for major public health emergencies, including tornadoes, floods, hurricanes, earthquakes, infectious disease outbreaks, and biological, chemical, and radiological events. This course provides essential information that nurses need to effectively handle a disaster or major catastrophic event. Beyond general information, the ReadyRN course covers information that is applicable to any catastrophe, including legal and ethical issues, psychosocial impact, crisis communications, care of children during disasters, and much more.
