USA Prepare®
Bioterrorism Training for Nurses

How does the course work?
Bioterrorism for nurses includes two courses. The first is "Bioterrorism Overview". The second is "Category A Agents".

The coursework is done online so that it may be taken during off-peak times and not interfere with daily duties. Each course and test is tracked by our Knowledge Deployment System® (KDS) so you and your staff are able to see how learners are progressing. The KDS will also track licensing, competencies and certifications and store them in a centralized location, making it easy to demonstrate staff proficiencies as needed.

What is the Bioterrorism (BT) Course for Nursing?
This course is designed for nurses and is a study of methodologies for dealing with the bioterrorism threats posed to them, their patients, facilities, and communities. The course may count toward Continuing Nursing Education contact hours. In the course, nurses will learn:

• How to prepare for a BT attack
• The five highest threat agents and how to recognize and deal with them
• How to protect themselves with personal protective equipment
• How to report and document incidents in their facility
• Their role in an emergency chain of command and communications that is NIMS compliant

What are the benefits of this program?
With USA Prepare’s online BT courses, you can train in multiple locations at different times. Instead of having to go through the logistics of finding and securing a classroom and making sure that everyone is able to attend, you simply select and assign the course materials and allow everyone to sign on and learn at times that are convenient to them regardless of their location. Your nurses can complete the coursework from any computer with an Internet connection, whether at work, home or even on the road.
