JOINT COMMISSION RESOURCES: POWERFUL E-LEARNING COURSES HELP PAVE THE WAY FOR ACCREDITATION

In today's difficult healthcare environment, quality of care is a top priority — both to meet the expectations of an increasingly savvy public and to sustain certification with commercial and government payors. Yet achieving and maintaining Joint Commission accreditation, the gold standard of quality benchmarks, is no simple task. Among other things, it demands ongoing, high-level coordination between departments and individuals.

That's why MC Strategies has partnered with the Joint Commission Resources to deliver the official online accreditation learning program. By uniting the Joint Commission Resources' Series with MC Strategies' Learning Management System, the nation's premier healthcare e-learning platform, we've created a powerful tool to provide hospitals with guidance about the full range of expectations, requirements, and standards associated with accreditation.

► Multimedia Presentation

The courses that make up the Joint Commission Resources' Series correlate to the chapter titles in the Commission's accreditation manuals and incorporate a state-of-the-art blend of audio, video, text, exercises, documents, and other resources. In addition to providing concise instructions and useful tips about the process, the courses also offer a number of real-world vignettes and case studies that illustrate how other provider organizations have surmounted specific accreditation challenges.

► Consistency and Convenience

Internet delivery of the Joint Commission Resources' Series helps ensure broad access to accreditation learning as well as lesson consistency across multiple disciplines, departments, and individuals. No longer must organizational leaders juggle complex schedules and absorb costly travel expenses to gain the foundational knowledge needed to support and sustain accreditation. Instead, the self-directed courses can be completed from the convenience of office or home.

And because a number of the Joint Commission Resources' Series courses qualify for continuing education credits, MC Strategies' Learning Management System allows participants to instantly receive credits after successfully completing the lesson. Automated record-keeping showing who has finished specific course work also helps hospital leaders monitor the organization's overall progress toward accreditation readiness.
