HFMA's Mastering Healthcare Compliance curriculum helps managers take control of regulatory training and education through 35 courses that describe the specific compliance requirements of federal laws, rules and regulations governing healthcare provision and reimbursement.

The Mastering Healthcare Compliance curriculum can help healthcare financial and operational professionals, compliance officers, on-call physicians and emergency department staff remain current with key federal compliance rules, regulations and issues, including the HIPAA, FCA, EMTALA, ARRA and the HITECH Act.

The curriculum's courses and interfaced posttest questions provide preapproved AHIMA Continuing Education credits. All courses explain the importance of compliance, the structure and components of a compliance training program, and sanctions and penalties associated with noncompliance of specific federal and state requirements.

Courses cover the current OIG Work Plan and compliance guidance for hospitals, nursing facilities, hospices, third-party billing companies, home health agencies, clinical laboratories and physician practices. Risks associated with coding, billing and claims submission are described in detail.

Other topics include an overview of Medicare reimbursement under the inpatient and outpatient Prospective Payment System (PPS), requirements of the "Red Flag" Rules for protecting against identity theft, recent changes to HIPAA resulting from the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA), the False Claims Act and the Deficit Reduction Act of 2005, the IRS's Form 990 requirements, federal anti-kickback laws and safe harbors, Stark requirements and much more.
